

CSSC Scotland undertook a post Glasgow 2014 Commonwealth Games survey amongst Industry Sector Leads (ISLs) and other businesses who received the messages. The results have been very positive and evidence how far CSSC Scotland has come since its inception in January 2013. The feedback shows that it has delivered on its objectives and supported Scottish businesses to prepare for and operate effectively during the Games.

Some of the highlights are:

- 98% said CSSC Scotland is an effective means of enabling communication between the public and private sectors.
- 93% felt the public and private sector effectively shared information on safety, security and resilience. This represents a 51% improvement to the previous survey in which 42% agreed and 39% disagreed.
- 89% were either 'Very Confident' (47%) or 'Confident' (42%) that in the event of an unexpected incident during the Games that the public sector information they needed would be made available via CSSC Scotland. This represents an increase in confidence of 52% from the 2013 survey.
